THE REDRESS MOVEMENT

In Colorado, there were some really big victories this legislative session. Come join us to celebrate!

There will be food and fun, and we can tell you all more about what all our hard work has accomplished and how we can continue to create positive change in our communities.

We'll be hosting the cookout on Saturday, May 25th at the GVR Rec Center, 4890 Argonne Way, Denver.

Action Recap from

Charlotte's Redress Roundtable gathered with about 30 other Redress neighbors at Charlotte City Council to appeal for deeper investments in solving the city's housing shortage.

Ten Redress neighbors spoke directly to city leaders in support of a bond package that would invest $100 million over two years in affordable housing. They further appealed to the city to push $25 million of that bond towards homeownership programs for low-wealth people.

The Charlotte city council appears poised to pass a $100 million Housing Trust Fund bond forward to a referendum in the November 2024 election. Redress neighbors will keep working to influence that funding to build maximum opportunity for the people of Charlotte!

Want to learn more about fair housing efforts?

Check out this webinar being hosted by New Jersey's Fair Share Housing Center, all about a new rule proposed by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development that would improve access to housing for justice-involved individuals and their families.

The webinar is happening on Thursday, May 30th, from 3:00-4:30pm EST. Read more about it and RSVP using this link!

SCREENED OUT:

On Wednesday, April 25th, we hosted our latest iteration of our webinar series with: "Lessons From The Field: Environmental Impacts of Segregation."

We were joined by Collette Pichon Battle of Taproot Earth, a climate justice organization rooted in Black Liberation, operating in the Gulf South. Collette detailed Taproot's commitment to incorporating equity and liberation into climate organizing, and discussed just how closely these two missions are intertwined.
